110TH CONGRESS 1ST SESSION

H. R. 3938

To repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002 (Public Law 107–243) and to require the withdrawal of the United States Armed Forces in Iraq.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

OCTOBER 23, 2007

Mr. DINGELL introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and in addition to the Committee on Armed Services, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

A BILL

- To repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002 (Public Law 107–243) and to require the withdrawal of the United States Armed Forces in Iraq.
 - 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
 - 2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,
 - 3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
 - 4 This Act may be cited as the "Bring Our Troops
 - 5 Home Responsibly Act of 2007".
 - 6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.
 - 7 Congress finds the following:

- (1) Prior to the initiation of the war in Iraq, the President cited concerns about weapons of mass destruction programs as one justification for the use of military force in Iraq. On October 6, 2004, the head of the Iraq Survey Group (ISG), Charles Duelfer, announced to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate that the group found no evi-dence that Iraq under Saddam Hussein had pro-duced and stockpiled any weapons of mass destruc-tion since 1991.
 - (2) Prior to the initiation of the war in Iraq, the President cited Saddam Hussein's role as a brutal dictator who tortured and killed thousands of Iraqi civilians during his 20-year rule as a justification for the use of military force in Iraq. Saddam Hussein was captured by United States forces on December 13, 2003, convicted of charges related to the execution of 148 Iraqi civilians on November 5, 2006, and executed on December 30, 2006.
 - (3) Prior to the initiation of the war in Iraq, the President cited possible links between the Al-Qaeda terrorist network and Saddam Hussein's government as a justification for the use of military force in Iraq. Reports by the Central Intelligence Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, and the - Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Defense have all concluded that there was little evidence of any such links. While there is currently violence in Iraq directed towards American troops, a September 2007 Congressional Research Service report found that attacks by the group Al-Qaeda in Iraq make up only a small percentage of the total number of attacks on United States troops in Iraq.

 - (4) Prior to the initiation of the war in Iraq, the President cited the importance of spreading democracy in the Middle East as a justification for the use of military force in Iraq. On October 15, 2005, the Iraqi people voted to ratify a new constitution, on January 30, 2005, the Iraqi people elected 275 members of a newly created Iraqi National Assembly, and on May 20, 2006, Nouri al-Maliki was approved as Prime Minister of Iraq by the National Assembly and sworn in.
 - (5) The President has failed to secure international support for the continuing efforts in Iraq. While the President has executed a plan known as the "troop surge", every other nation participating in the occupation of Iraq is reducing troop levels. The United Kingdom has reduced its troop levels from 45,000 to approximately 4,500. Twenty nations

- that had once been members of the international coalition contributing troops have completely withdrawn those troops from Iraq.
 - (6) The United States has accomplished all of the military goals announced by the President at the outset of the war in Iraq. The brave men and women of the Armed Forces have performed admirably, showing both dedication to their mission and professionalism in carrying that mission out.
 - (7) The Bush Administration has, at various times, confirmed that the military goals of the war in Iraq were complete. On May 1, 2003, the President stood in front of a banner reading "Mission Accomplished" and declared an end to major military operations in Iraq. On May 30, 2005, the Vice President stated in a television interview that the insurgency was in its "last throes".
 - (8) It is clear that the American people are looking for a change in strategy in Iraq—one that will allow the Nation to safely and responsibly bring members of the Armed Forces home as quickly as possible. However, the strategy outlined by the President in his September 13, 2007, address makes it clear that the President has no plan for substantially reducing the number of troops in Iraq while he

- 1 is in office. It is unconscionable for President Bush
- 2 to leave this situation for the next President to fix.
- 3 SEC. 3. REPEAL OF PUBLIC LAW 107-243.
- 4 The Authorization for Use of Military Force Against
- 5 Iraq Resolution of 2002 (Public Law 107–243) is hereby
- 6 repealed.

7 SEC. 4. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

main in Iraq;

- 8 It is the policy of the United States—
- 9 (1) that, based upon the findings of section 1, 10 the United States has accomplished those military 11 goals that were established at the outset of the use 12 of military force in Iraq, and that it no longer bene-13 fits the national security of the United States for 14 members of the United States Armed Forces to re-
 - (2) that the United States should begin withdrawing its Armed Forces from Iraq in a safe, responsible, and orderly manner, and that such withdrawal should begin no later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and should be accomplished by 12:00 p.m. on January 20, 2009;
 - (3) that the congressionally mandated report produced by the Iraq Study Group contains a set of recommendations which, if followed, would assist the United States in accomplishing a troop withdrawal

- in the most responsible manner possible and prepare the Iraqis to return to full self-government;
 - (4) that it is the moral duty of the United States to continue assisting the Government of Iraq in rebuilding and reconstruction efforts, as well as efforts to find a lasting political solution to the ongoing sectarian conflict that has occurred since the United States military invasion of Iraq, and that doing so will require that the United States engage in vigorous diplomatic efforts and the engagement of other regional and global actors; and
 - (5) that the United States is further morally obligated to provide humanitarian assistance for the millions of Iraqi refugees that have been displaced since the beginning of the war in Iraq, especially those Iraqi civilians who have become targets for violence because they have worked with or assisted the United States military or the Iraqi Government.
